Economic Impact Payments

- The CARES Act includes direct payments to individuals.
- The payment is $1,200 per individual and $500 per child, phasing out at higher incomes.

Economy

Social Security recipients who don't usually file tax returns will automatically get $1,200 payments, Treasury says in reversal

Most high school seniors and college students still won't get any money at all.

What about Social Security beneficiaries?

Last week, Treasury decided to save about 15 million people some time.

What about SSI beneficiaries?

- Not so much luck yet.

Needy Will Face Hurdles to Getting Coronavirus Stimulus

The Treasury reversed guidance that would have required millions of Social Security recipients to file returns, but many other low-income people will have to submit them.

COVID-19 Changes to the Unemployment Insurance Program

Overview

- Permanent unemployment insurance (UI) program generally pays 26 weeks of partial temporary wage replacement to covered, experienced unemployed workers while they actively search for work.
- Congress usually adds additional weeks of benefits during a recession.
- The COVID-19 response (CARES Act, March 27, 2020) does much more by providing more comprehensive benefits to more unemployed workers leading to greater economic stabilization in a time of extreme need.
- It provides necessary patches, additions and federal funding, building on state UI programs that were found to be insufficient and difficult to change.
- Next, we look at UI problems and the COVID-19 response's attempted solutions.

Problems with the Permanent UI Program

- Access: Hard to apply for and receive UI, especially in some states. Computer or telephone filing. (“Antiquated” systems, but c. 30 times increase in initial claims in 2 weeks.) Limitations on eligibility.
- Coverage: While almost all wage and salary workers are covered, not self-employed, contract and gig workers.
- Benefit Levels: Inadequate in many states with restrictive maximum benefits.
- Benefit Durations: Some states have reduced basic UI below 26 weeks.
- Extended Benefits: Not working effectively. Congress enacted emergency program extensions during past recessions.
- Unemployment Prevention: Short-time compensation in 28 states but not effective.

COVID-19 Temporary Solutions

- Three new, temporary, federally-funded programs:
  - Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA) extends coverage. Pays 39 weeks thru 12/31.
  - Federal Pandemic Unemployment Compensation (FPUC) pay $600 add-on thru 7/31.
  - Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation (PEUC): 13 weeks of “EB” thru 12/31.
- Access: States continue to determine application process and eligibility for UI. Urged to relax work search requirement re COVID-19. Expands eligibility through PUA. One-page application for PUA.
- Coverage: Expanded to self-employed, contract and gig workers, PUA paying 39 weeks through December 31. Wide PUA coverage: unable or unavailable to work for COVID-19 reasons, workers seeking part-time work, lacking sufficient work experience, exhausted all rights to regular UI, EB or PEUC.
- Benefit Levels: State-funded UI benefit formulas unchanged. FPUC increases benefits increased by $600 a week for all programs, only through July 31.

COVID-19 Response

- Benefit Duration: Unchanged for permanent UI programs.
- Non-Reduction Rule: states cannot reduce benefit level or durations during CARES Act benefits period.
- PEUC: extends benefits beyond regular benefit by up to 13 weeks, payable in all states. Permanent triggered EB continues.
- Short-Time Compensation: 100 percent federally funded. Not counted against firms' experience rating. Grants to states.

Administrative Issues

- State UI agency ability to expand to process initial claims and benefit payments, e.g., 5.8 M (not 6.6 M s.a.) claims processed for week ending March 28.
- Relatively easy administratively to add additional weeks to state UI computer systems.
- Difficult to start/expand new programs from scratch (Pandemic Unemployment Assistance) and staff-intensive programs (STC).
- Additional $1B for administration helps - hiring and training claims takers takes time. Expedite return of former workers.
